1. [ ] Met with Carl Marcy, Chief of Staff, Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and told him of the Director's serious concern over [ ]

25X1

[ ] Marcy recalled the story which he said he much regretted but was at a loss to explain where it had come from. He noted one passage quoted Senator Symington, and went on to say he doubted any of the staff was responsible.

Marcy added that the Committee was extremely pleased over its present relations with the Agency and hoped nothing would upset this. He then mentioned that there was a movement on foot, led by Senators Proxmire, Mondale and others to subject the Agency to tighter congressional control with the establishment of a joint watchdog committee. However, he said that so long as we cooperated so satisfactorily with the Foreign Relations Committee he doubted that this movement would gain much strength.

In conclusion I gave Marcy a marked copy of the article in question which he assured me Senator Fulbright would call to the attention of the full Committee.

STAT

2. [ ] Delivered to Carl Marcy the answers to questions submitted by Senator Case at the conclusion of the Director's testimony before the Committee on 7 July, together with answers to questions contained in a letter of 10 July 1970 to the Director from Senator Fulbright. I explained to Marcy our grave concern over the sensitivity of some of these answers [ ]

I briefed Senator Young on recent developments in Southeast Asia, the Middle East and in Soviet surface-to-air missiles.

I told him that this was a matter for the Pentagon, and in response to his question, told him that I was unaware of the Director having ever made a public statement on this subject. This seemed to satisfy Mr. Steinberg.
